TotalWebDesigner.com Launches Web site for Okoboji Country Inn

Unique Iowa Great Lakes bed and breakfast includes tea room and gift shop

West Okoboji, IA (May 13, 2008) -- Leading Iowa design firm creates original Web site design for Donna Muilenburg, owner of The Okoboji Country Inn in West Okoboji, Iowa.

TotalWebDesigner.com's lead graphic artist, Emily G. Boetel, fashioned the new website to appear warm, yet spacious for travelers. Boetel and the bed and breakfast owner wanted guests to get a feeling of a comfy retreat; quiet and welcoming with an informative page listing several options of things to do in the Iowa Great Lakes area. “

The website displays beautiful photos of each individually decorated room. All rooms include luxe bath towels, soft oversized bath mats and 600 thread count Egyptian cotton linens.

For breakfast guests gather in Annabelle's Tea Room. Here Muilenburg can also serve 20-25 afternoon tea guests for small parties, showers and family gatherings.

In the beginning, Muilenburg wanted a hobby while raising four children. She and her husband bought and refinished their first building remodel. They turned an old wash house into a quaint, beautifully decorated high quality gift shop. Then, up against nationally-known competitor Hallmark. For the past thirty years Muilenburg has been selling home interior, bright florals, candles, linens and artfully framed pictures to appease many different tastes.

While successfully managing her wash house turned gift shop, Muilenburg had her eye on an old farm house. When she realized city developers were about to buy the land the house was on and build a mall, she took immediate action. She purchased, moved, remodeled and opened yet, another building and created a business. By February 2008 her concept of a bed and breakfast was finally born and ready for guests.

Today Muilenburg is hosting guests from the entire US in her bed and breakfast. "People have a special place in their hearts for the Okoboji area," says Muilenburg. "Some grew up here and others come from California or Texas just to enjoy what Okoboji has to offer."

The summers are a beautiful lush green and the water is a perfect blue - and one of only three blue water lakes in the world! Spring-fed West Okoboji Lake is 134' deep.

Fall provides a different kind of beauty. Outside The Okoboji Country Inn one can sit and take pleasure in watching deer, mallard ducks and pheasant among Muilenburg's apple trees and planted wild flowers.

The Muilenburg family background is hard-working agriculture and homey Midwestern hospitality rich in extra-large beds, exquisite breakfasts and private sunroom views. As Memorial Day and Fourth of July approaches Muilenburg states, "come to the Lakes to treat yourself to something special."
